Step 1:

Pick your song and listen to it for 10 seconds before hitting pause. Based on the first 10 seconds, pick the first colour it makes you think of.

Step 2:

Paint the background of your paper using the colour you selected and wait for the paint to dry before continuing.

Step 3:

Listen to the next 30 seconds of the song and select the material that best fits the mood of the song. Markers if it is loud and harsh sounding, crayons if it is medium toned and paced, pencil crayons/pastels if it is soft and mellow. Use the medium of your choice to add the next layer to your artwork.

Step 4:

Listen to the rest of the song and use markers to create symbols or patterns that represent the patterns you hear in the song. For example, you can use dots to represent a beat you hear throughout the song or a wave for the volume that changes as the song plays.

Optional Addition:

When you are finished, pick a song that is very different from the one you just listened to and try again to see how your artwork changes.
