Fall Harvest

Fall is the season for farmers to harvest their crops before winter weather sets in. Explore Fall vegetables as you create your own crops to harvest.

Roger Kyriazogloc and Luc Mailloux Harvest, 1973.
Brampton Times Fonds - Peel Archives.

Women Picking Onions at Droogendyk Farm, 1973. Brampton Times Fonds - Peel Archives.

Materials:

- Cardboard/Cardstock/Paper Plate
- Markers/Pencil Crayons/Crayons
- Brown Yarn/Twine
- Hole Punch
- Construction Paper
- Scissors
- Glue Stick
- Templates

This activity is provided to you by:

Step 1:
Cut your cardboard/cardstock into your desired shape for the base of your activity. Use markers/pencil crayons/crayons to decorate it so approx. half looks like it's under ground and half showing the sky.

Step 2:
Take your hole punch and punch holes around the edge of your base on the half that is decorated like it's under ground.

This activity is provided to you by:

Step 3:

Tie the end of your string/twine to the first hole and weave across your plate from side to side until the whole underground part of your base is covered in string/twine.

Step 4:

Either cut-out and use the templates provided to trace your chosen vegetables on coloured construction paper and cut them out. Use a glue stick to attach pieces of a different colour to one another and if desired, decorate with markers/pencil crayons/crayons.
